- ✓This creates a sense of belongingness for the employees.
- ✓Employees feel valued and their competence acknowledged by the organization.
- ✓Standard also requires knowledge management, competence management and trainings to augment skills of employees.
- ✓This results in higher motivation, retention rate and productivity.

Benefits of ISO Certification

3. Ensuring customer / stakeholder satisfaction

- ✓ISO standards require a detailed evaluation of stakeholder / customer requirements, needs and expectations.
- ✓This creates a risk based approach to create a robust plan of action and achieve customer satisfaction while addressing needs of all the stakeholders associated with the organization.
- ✓Standard also requires focused, well defined and validated communication strategies with the customers / stake holders to ensure a smooth information flow.

Benefits of ISO Certification

4. Process standardization, augmentation and measurement

- ✓Consistency within all processes in an organization minimizes the opportunity for error.
- ✓An opportunity to define all the processes in a unified manner and regular review / improvements identification in the processes.
- ✓Identification of process effectiveness evaluation parameters ensures your processes are measurable and monitored regularly.
- ✓This consistency ultimately ensures that the final product or service is of a consistent quality and meets requirements of the stakeholder.

Benefits of ISO Certification

5. Process improvements based on facts, data and documented information

- ✓Get a consistent and reliable data / information from various processes across the organization to determine the health of your business.
- ✓Audit processes, Management Review and non-conformity management provides a fantastic input for process improvement.
- ✓Improvements based on facts can be carefully planned and implemented.
- ✓This is assisted by the use of the system of documented information and analysis.
- ✓This will in turn ensure that all decisions made by management are the best decisions for your organization within the given circumstances.

6. Well structured and effective documentation

- ✓All management systems requires that major critical processes are documented including any discrepancies, errors and changes.
- ✓A system consisting of manuals, policies, procedures, records and other documented information ensures efficiency, effectiveness and productivity.
- ✓Staff accountability and consistency throughout operations is then therefore ensured.
- ✓Traceable records are also available.

7. Increased Revenue

- ✓Companies which implement and maintain the ISO standards experience improved financial performance as well as increased productivity when compared to other companies who do not implement such systems.

Benefits of ISO Certification
